

THE ZOMBIE

MORE THAN 10CL OF ALCOHOL

160,=

YES! THIS IS THE ONE
WITH FIRE ON IT!

Legend has it that Donn Beach originally concocted the Zombie in 1934 to help a hungover customer get through a business meeting. The customer returned several days later to complain that he had been turned into a zombie for his entire trip. Its delicious taste conceals its extremely high alcoholic content!

Donn kept the recipe a secret, and we do too.
All you need to know is:

SOME TIKI HISTORY

A POLYNESIAN POP AND DRINK CULTURE

The word Tiki originates from the Polynesian culture meaning “the first man” and it was often displayed in wooden masks and sculptures of the God like humankind shapes.

After world war II, American troops left the tropical islands returning to their home country with memories of white beaches, tropical beverages and breathtaking hula girls. Soldiers brought pieces of the south pacific culture back home - artifacts, souvenirs, music and recipes of various foods and drinks.

One of these soldiers wrote history shortly after opening his first Tiki bar in the heart of Hollywood, California in 1934. This man called himself Donn Beach a.k.a. Don The Beachcomber, the creator of the Mai Tai, Missionar’s Downfall, Sumatra Kulah and The Zombie.

Another famous entrepreneur was Victor Jules Bergeron Jr a.k.a Trader Vic. What these guys started became a huge influence on American culture throughout the 20th century. Keep the legacy in mind when drinking and honour the good people who gave us the opportunity to serve you tropical downpours in the name of Tiki...
